Last Week in Credit Markets

The tone in the Financial markets was overall positive over the last week, with indices reporting a generalised improving. On Wednesday (28 July), the July FOMC meeting ended with no operational changes, leaving interest rates and the bond-buying programme unchanged, though hinted at future discussions on tapering. In credit, both IG and HY spreads improved, albeit the tightening was lower in relative terms for HY. The trend was similar among the iTraxx indices, with the Main and the Crossover tightening versus the previous week.

Tactical View on Credit Markets

After the positive performance recorded in 1H21, we believe that a moderate spread tightening trend could persist in 2H21 for Italian NFI corporate bonds. This should be supported by a normalisation in fundamentals expected in 2021-2022 amid a stronger-than-expected recovery in the domestic economy, fuelled by the post-COVID rebound and the positive effects of the National Recovery and Resilience Plan. Moreover, technical factors remain supportive, in our view, based on our expectations for a continuation of solid corporate bond purchases by the ECB as well as a slowdown in the primary market in 2H21, after the record gross issuance seen in 1H21. In the Italian bank bond sector, we continue to see as supportive factors the ECB's comprehensive package of monetary stimulus, coupled with the upcoming EU stimulus package, as well as the expected accelerated rebound for the economic scenario. In this context, we expect the persisting low-interest-rate scenario to continue to put pressure on net interest margins, and asset quality looks set to be affected by both the fallout from the pandemic crisis and the run-off of support measures. M&A development looks to be significant, with an overall positive impact likely, in our view. Also, we see the search for yield continuing in the low-interest-rate environment, with riskier assets likely to outperform, in our view.

Italian Tactical View & Trading Ideas

Italian Tactical View

In the past week, the tone among the Non-Financial corporates that we cover was mixed. Regarding the higher-rated issuers, the tightening trend was widespread, with longer maturities slightly underperforming; the best performer was A2A with its 2023 and 2031 bonds (-6.2bps and -5.0bps, respectively), while ENI's 2028 bond was the only one to report a widening (+2.8bps). In the HY segment, Saipem was the worst performer (2022 bond, +54.0bps; 2023 bond, +36.1bps). During the week, several Non-Financial corporate issuers under our coverage reported their 2Q21 results, showing in most cases a positive performance, in line or above Bloomberg consensus.

Note: the tables below only show bonds that trade below an ASW of 1,000bps

In a week marked by the results of Unicredit and Mediobanca (both beating consensus estimates), the Banking sector was characterised by important newsflow, which culminated on Thursday, at market close, with Unicredit informing that it had agreed with the Italian Government the prerequisite for a potential business combination with Banca MPS. Looking at the different bonds segments: i) among senior unsecured bonds, MPS' bonds were again the best performers (2022 note, -51.9bps; 2025 note, -35.4bps); ii) the covered bonds space (CB) was almost entirely positive; iii) the subordinated space was generally positive as well, with just Banco BPM 2031 bonds reporting a tiny widening; and iv) hybrid bonds closed broadly flat.

Market Trends

The tone in the Financial markets was overall positive over the last week, with indices reporting a generalised improving. On Wednesday (28 July), the July FOMC meeting ended with no operational changes, leaving interest rates and the bond-buying programme unchanged, though hinted at future discussions on tapering. In credit, both IG and HY spreads improved, albeit the tightening was lower in relative terms for HY. The trend was similar among the iTraxx indices, with the Main and the Crossover tightening versus the previous week.

Investment grade. In the past week, the sentiment was positive in the IG cash space, with the ASW of the iBoxx IG Euro improving by 3bps to 56bps. Both Financial and Non-Financials bonds tightened by 3bps as well, closing at 61bps and 53bps, respectively. By industrial subsector, Automotive, Media, O&G and Travel & Leisure improved by 4bps, while the remaining segments tightened by 3bps. In terms of rating, the ASW spread for all ratings shifted down by 3bps. Regarding maturity, the 5-7Y bucket was the best performer with a 4bps tightening, the other buckets improved by 3bps.

Earnings season. According to Bloomberg, around 55% of companies in the S&P 500 index have announced their 2Q21 results to date, with 88% surprising positively on earnings and 84% positively on sales. Average EPS were up by 91%, mainly driven by Consumer Discretionary (+408%), Basic Materials (+284%), and Financials (+235%). Aggregate 2Q21 revenues were also up (+24%). To date, around 60% of companies forming the Eurostoxx 600 index have announced their 2Q21 results, with 60% surprising positively on earnings and 70% positively on sales to date. Average EPS increased by 166%, owing to the performances of Industrials (+879%), Energy (+377%), and Communications (+332%). Revenues in 2Q21 rose by 27% in aggregate.

More positive results from US companies in 2Q21

Equity markets. In the past week, equity markets recorded mainly positive performances. In Europe, the Eurostoxx 50 increased by 1.4% vs the previous week. The breakdown by country showed the FTSE MIB reporting the best performance (+2.9%), the CAC 40 and Ibex 35 growing low single digit (+2.3% and +1.9%, respectively), and the DAX rising by 0.8%. Outside the Eurozone, the NIKKEI was up by 0.9% (close on 30 July), the Hang Seng dropped by 5.1% due to China's regulatory crackdown, while the NASDAQ rose by 0.6% to a new all-time high on the back of positive 2Q results by big tech giants. Market volatility decreased in Europe, with the V2X index down 0.6%.

Government bonds. Government bonds reported positive performances over the last week, with yields decreasing in both core and peripheral countries. According to data provided by Refinitiv Datastream, on Thursday (29 July), Italy's 10Y BTP yield closed at 0.62% (from 0.65% on Thursday, 22 July), Germany's 10Y Bund yield at -0.50% (from -0.46%), France's 10Y OAT at -0.16% (vs -0.14%), and Spain's 10Y Bonos yield at 0.21% (from 0.22%). The generalised yield decrease drove spreads to close broadly unchanged versus the previous week, with the 10Y BTP-Bund spread at 112bps from 111bps and the 10Y BTP-Bonos spread at 41bps from 42bps. Sentiment was positive also outside Europe, with the 10Y US Treasury yield closing at 1.27% vs 1.28% in the previous week.

July FOMC Meeting. After a two-day policy meeting, the FOMC statement ended with no operational changes, as the Fed did not, as expected, lift interest rates from their near-zero level (0% - 0.25% range), nor did it announce when it planned to let up on its EUR 120Bn in monthly bond purchases (split between EUR80Bn Treasury securities and EUR40Bn agency mortgage-backed securities). Nevertheless, with inflation soaring and some employment measurements finally starting to show sustained improvement, it did hint at considering such a move in the future, stressing that "it will assess progress in coming meetings". In a news conference following the release of the FOMC statement, Fed Chair Jerome Powell said the U.S. job market still had "some ground to cover" before it would be time to pull back from the economic support the U.S. central bank put in place in the spring of 2020 to battle the coronavirus pandemic's economic shocks; however, Powell also downplayed, at least for now, the risk that the renewed spread of the coronavirus through its more infectious Delta variant will put the recovery at risk or throw the Fed off track as it plans an exit from crisis-era policies. Powell added that there was "very little support" for cutting the EUR 40Bn in monthly purchases of mortgage-backed securities earlier than the EUR 80Bn in Treasuries, and that once the process begins "we will taper them at the same time". According to our economists, the Fed Chair's words and the assessment of the macro scenario support the forecast that the tapering plan can be defined by the September meeting, and implemented starting from late 2021 / early 2022.

Valuation methodology

Intesa Sanpaolo's credit views are based on the expected trend of the company's fundamentals. The view reflects the sector trend and the competitive scenario, the company's financial strength, as well as its profitability outlook and competitive positioning. In our credit quality valuation, we consider management's intention and ability to meet debt obligations, the company's dividend policy and, in general, its attention to bondholders' interests. Among key financial ratios, for those sectors where relevant, we assess the company's ability to generate operating cash flow, its capacity to repay maturing debt through cash flow, its net interest coverage ratio and capital ratios.

In the case of significant events, which could determine a change in our credit view, we may place our recommendation under review. This review does not necessarily imply a change in the credit view.
