

Intesa Sanpaolo takes part in the European Week for Renewable Energy

The Bank participates in the meetings organised in various Italian cities for the event which involves all the EU countries from 11 to 15 April 2011

Sustainable Energy Week is the most important event in Europe on the subject of environmental sustainability.

It is part of the "Sustainable Energy Europe" Campaign launched by the European Commission to contribute to the achievement of European targets in terms of renewable resources, energy efficiency, clean transport and alternative fuel; Intesa Sanpaolo was the first bank in Europe to receive recognition as an Official Partner..

Within this framework, our Bank was present together with Leasint with a stand at the "Energetica" Fair in Turin (7-9 April) and at "EnergyMed" in Naples (14-16 April).

Furthermore it has an important role in organising and taking part in the following seminars:

- "Renewable energy and energy saving in Italy and abroad: rules, financing and business opportunities" (Turin, 7 April)
- "The Mayors' Pact: a European commitment towards 2020" (Turin 8 April, Bergamo 11 April, Lecce 15 April)
- The Energy Efficiency Market and the ESCO role (Naples, 15 april).
